reetings, and welcome to The Children's Sentinel, our brand-new magazine designed specifically for you – the friends of the United Methodist Children's Home, the Methodist Behavioral Hospital, and all components within the Methodist Family Health System.

We want to offer you a glimpse inside our wonderful world – to provide an up-close view of what you help make possible. Inside each issue, you'll learn more about new programs, recent success stories, and what's going on throughout the Methodist Family Health Continuum of Care. In fact, let me use this opportunity to introduce the newest member of our system, the Methodist Family Health Foundation. The Foundation, which is the development and public relations arm of the MFH System, brings you this publication.

Over the years, our growth has been equaled only by our need for constant change. So, before we move forward, I thought it wise to first take a look back. It was in 1898 that the three conferences which now constitute the Arkansas Conference of the United Methodist Church recognized the need for an orphanage in Arkansas. In 1899, Arkansas Methodist Orphanage was formed. Service began in 1902 when a building was donated and a Methodist pastor from McCrory, Arkansas, brought the first orphan, eight-year-old Jessie Miller, to Little Rock for care.

The orphanage served Arkansas well for many years, but as attitudes and regulations about homes for orphans changed, so did the services we provided. Our name changed as well, and Arkansas Methodist Orphanage became the Methodist Children's Home.

During and since the 1950s, Methodist youth homes have been built around the state. In 2001, a hospital was acquired in Maumelle and was transformed into the Methodist Behavioral Hospital. As the complexity and size of youth services has grown, our boards of directors wisely chose to consolidate operations and form a new company, Methodist Family Health, Inc., to manage all facets of our ministry. This management company provides accounting, human resources and other services for the Children's Home and the Hospital, thereby bringing substantial cost effectiveness to these operations.

Our vital ministry to children has been part of Arkansas Methodism for over a century, and our ties today with the Arkansas Annual Conference of the Methodist Church have never been stronger. Nor have they ever been more important.

I hope these periodic updates will help you to more fully understand the work we are doing with more than 200 youngsters in our daily care and to realize the importance of your support. I invite you to visit our facilities and see firsthand our life-changing ministry. To schedule your tour, please call or e-mail Lisa Brown at (501) 661-0720 (extension 5308) or lbrown@methodistfamily.org.

Thank you for your continued support. I hope you enjoy this inaugural issue of The Children's Sentinel, as well as the many issues to follow.

Sincerely,

Andy Altom
President and CEO

Magale Manor Makeover

by Pamela Fields, Certified Teaching-Parent

Christmas came early for the staff and residents of our Joanna Magale Manor in Magnolia. The youth home was in serious need of some “fixin’ up” – both minor repairs and other more substantial work. Help arrived in a big way in June, with donations (in the form of materials and free labor) pouring in from area churches and businesses.

A group of hard-working youth and adults from Aledo United Methodist Church of Aledo, Texas, volunteered as part of the Central Texas Conference Youth in Mission trip. In just a short time, they completed a number of projects, including installing new baseboards throughout the home, adding a new screen door and spreading lots of paint.

The Home Missions Repair Committee at First United Methodist Church of El Dorado purchased and installed new floors in the kitchen, pantry, laundry room, office and foyer. This plan was hatched when Ed and Melba Ainsworth took an interest in helping our home, after Mrs. Ainsworth and her friend, Ms. Pat Anthony, toured our facility prior to Christmas last year. They immediately offered their help, and Mrs. Ainsworth asked how her church might assist. Another special thank you to committee members Ed Ainsworth, Truman Channell, Dr. Scott Hardin, John Lusk and Brent Stratton, who contributed their expertise (and sweat!) to the installation of the beautiful new floors, which added so much warmth to the house.

Alan White Furniture also added to the enhancement of the living environment with a donation of new furniture for our living room and den. We feel so blessed by their generosity!

It’s great to see people expressing their kindness all through the year, not just at Christmas. The boys who live at the home appreciate their new surroundings, and we’re all so grateful to those who worked so hard to make it all happen.

Continuity and Renewal

by William R. Patterson
Vice President for Advancement

Since the late 1800s, this ministry of the Arkansas Methodist Church has served youngsters in need of a helping hand. The original mission was to serve as an orphanage and to help find individual homes with loving families for the children. As times have changed, so has the ministry.

The 1950s brought to Little Rock a modern new campus with multiple, home-style cottages. Soon, other group residential homes were established around the state. By the late '90s, increased awareness of so many youngsters with severe emotional and behavioral problems led to the creation of Methodist Behavioral Hospital, which opened in 2001. Located in Maumelle, Arkansas, this 60-bed facility serves children ages 3-17 with acute or sub-acute emotional problems. Even as our physical structures have evolved dramatically, our dedication has remained unchanged: to give children love and to help them rebuild their lives.

The myriad of programs designed to meet the changing needs of Arkansas youngsters, as well as the need to manage those programs most efficiently, led to the creation of Methodist Family Health, Inc., in 2003. This consolidation of management services has brought about substantial improvement in both program development and cost effectiveness.

More recently, a new nonprofit foundation, the Methodist Family Health Foundation, was created to better handle the development of funding for all the programs and services within the Methodist Family Health System, including the United Methodist Children's Home, the Methodist Behavioral Hospital and all other components of the System.

The Foundation will also continue to manage existing funds that have come from generous benefactors over the years. As always, donations can be made to benefit any single agency within the System. The upcoming Christmas special appeal and offerings will continue to benefit specifically the Children's Home.

Assisting children is why we are here. And the Methodist Family Health Foundation will help us maintain our pledge to remain the best possible stewards of your charitable contributions.

The scene is captured from a high angle, looking down into the canoes. The water is clear and blue, with some white foam from the paddles. The overall atmosphere is one of outdoor recreation and teamwork.

Director of Residential Services,
Methodist Family Health

Tanako

Campers Leave Wanting More

“It was a wild hare of an idea,” muses Craig Gammon, director of residential services for Methodist Family Health (MFH), about the initial plan to organize a retreat for all the residents of MFH’s therapeutic group homes in 2001. “We didn’t know how it would work.” The children and teens from MFH’s seven homes (in Fayetteville, Springdale, Batesville, Searcy, Little Rock, and Magnolia, where there are two) had never all been in the same place at once, and Gammon and the other members of the planning committee worried about the ramifications of grouping them together.

Adding to those concerns, a month before the retreat was scheduled, all involved in organizing the retreat, save Gammon and his wife Alicia, who serves as assistant director of residential services, left their jobs to work at the newly opened Behavioral Hospital in Maumelle or resigned. Scrambling for direction, the Gammons decided to borrow a chapter from their own childhoods.

“We grew up going to summer camp,” Craig says. “For us, and probably most people, it was a normal part of childhood. A lot of our kids have never had that opportunity.”

“We’ve sent some kids in the past to church camp,” adds Alicia, “but, because of their background, or because they’ve been sponsored, they have trouble relating to other kids and feel isolated. We wanted to offer a camp where everyone’s past would be a non-issue. Our kids come from abusive backgrounds and have been involved with the courts, and we wanted to provide them an environment where they would feel normal.” In just a few short weeks, the Gammons secured the use of Camp Tanako outside of Hot Springs on Lake Catherine and worked out all the logistical details associated with running a 48-hour camp. Despite all the preparations, they still didn’t know what to expect.

“We were terrified for the first three hours,” remembers Craig, “but the whole social thing – the introductions and such – took about ten minutes, and everything rolled along nicely from there.”

Now, after five years, Alicia, who took over as camp director (or “Camp Lady” as she says she’s affectionately called) for her husband after the second year, says the camp has become one of the most meaningful things MFH does. The most recent camp, held over two days in early August, included not only all of the kids from residential homes and their teaching parents, but also children and teens from MFH’s emergency shelter, residential treatment center, therapeutic foster care center, sub-acute unit, and day-treatment program – all in all, 89 campers, ranging in age from seven to nineteen.

True to the Gammons’ initial vision, MFH youth participate in the same kinds of activities as kids at camp everywhere: arts and crafts, basketball tournaments, canoe and kayak races, fishing derbies (this year the Game and Fish brought in a fifteen-by-fifty-foot pen filled with 300 catfish – “It was harder not to catch a fish, than to catch one,” jokes Craig), photo-scavenger hunts and water wars. An annual talent show and its traveling trophy, “the Hammy” (a golden pig in a tutu), encourages teaching parents and behavioral instructors to get involved and work with the kids, Alicia says.

The night before the camp ends, there’s a carnival, filled with what Alicia calls “silly kids games,” such as a ring toss, a prize walk (like a cake walk, with assorted prizes instead of cakes), a fishing-pole grab bag, and the most popular activity, the pie-throwing contest.

Shelton Walker, the assistant director of the day treatment school, and Wilson Howe, a therapist at the day treatment school, served as targets this year. “You’d hear kids say, ‘Remember when you took away my privileges?’ before launching their pie [of shaving cream],” remembers Craig, laughing.

Two new musical components – karaoke (featuring songs almost exclusively unknown to the adult counselors) and live music from Tempted, a residential treatment center staffer’s classic-rock band (featuring songs almost exclusively unknown to the campers) – proved extremely popular to the campers and counselors alike, Alicia says.

Also this year, teaching parents Art and Joslyn Harney put on a puppet show about making friends with people who are different, and Bishop Hicks spoke to the campers. In the past, ministers from churches across the state have come to speak, and two years ago, Harry Jones, a successful businessman who grew up in the Methodist Children’s Home in the ’50s, shared his story. Following this year’s theme, “Rhythms of Change,” Dr. Larry Clark of Little Rock, came and led a drum circle for the campers.

All campers receive T-shirts and medals with red-white-and-blue ribbon, and trophies are awarded in all activities and for “Most Outstanding New Camper” and “Most Improved Camper.”

“In my visits to the residential homes throughout the state,” says Alicia, “I always notice the medals and trophies on the kids’ dressers. They’re a real source of pride for them.” With so much activity, it’s easy to forget that the camp lasts only two days. “We cram as much into 48 hours as possible,” explains Craig. “There’s no idle time,” adds Alicia.

To ensure that all of the youth, some of whom have severe behavioral problems, are accounted for, campers are required to check-in at each station with counselors, who communicate with other counselors via walkie-talkies.

“We don’t want to be following the kids around,” Craig says. “We want them to have a sense of freedom, but we need them to check-in. It’s almost just a semantics difference, but it gives the kids a sense of freedom.”

To keep things running smoothly, MFH added a therapeutic aspect to camp this year. Four therapists, who specialize in crisis intervention and group and individual therapy, worked the camp, and Alicia says she never saw one without a camper. Mostly, she says, the therapists focus on process, helping the kids and teens to understand what shapes their reactions to problems.

“The therapeutic component just made camp all the better,” Alicia reports.

Next year, the Gammons have a surefire plan to make camp better: lengthen it. Each year at the end of weekend, campers are asked to give their opinions about camp in a survey, and every year, they ask for the weekend to be extended.

“What can you say?” Craig says with a grin. “The kids love camp.”

Providing Hope for Arkansas Children

Under the leadership of retired Bishop Kenneth Hicks, who is serving the Methodist Family Health System as Director of Ministries, the Methodist Family Health Foundation has created the Children's Bible Fund. Already, many friends have sent contributions to support this new fund. All youngsters entering the Methodist Family Health Continuum of Care will receive an age-appropriate Bible Storybook or Bible to keep and to carry with them, whether they stay in the care of the Methodist Family Health System or move to another living situation. The Cokesbury Bookstore in Little Rock is assisting with this project.

Cokesbury Manager Sam Albright (right) happily shows the first order of Bible Storybooks to retired Bishop Kenneth Hicks, director of Ministries, and Maggie Beeler, director of Special Programs.

Judith and Charles Long of Jonesboro have created an endowed fund in the Methodist Family Health Foundation in honor of Mrs. Long's late parents. Income from The Reverend Mitchell and Gladys Masters Sanford Endowment will be used for the benefit of the children served by the United Methodist Children's Home. An endowed fund exists in perpetuity, with only the income being used each year. The Longs are members of First United Methodist Church of Jonesboro.

The Mason Memorial Foundation in Tontitown continues to provide assistance to the Methodist Family Health System. Although the Mason Memorial Foundation focuses primarily on the group homes in Springdale and Fayetteville, assistance is provided to youngsters throughout the Continuum. Most recently, the Mason Memorial Foundation provided 40 sets of bedroom furniture to be used in our facilities throughout the state. Debbie Pianalto is the founder and board chair of the Foundation, and Damon Joyce is the executive director. The Foundation's mission is to help provide a world where all children have the opportunity to grow up healthy, happy and safe in a loving environment.

Officials of Regions Bank in Hot Springs recently presented a check to the Methodist Family Health Foundation as a distribution of the Elizabeth Snyder Trust. The late Mrs. Snyder created the trust in 1989. Income from the trust was designated first to Mrs. Snyder during her lifetime and then to her grandson until his death, at which time the trust was terminated and the trust's assets were distributed.

THE JAMES M. WORKMAN SOCIETY

Reverend James M. Workman, while pastor of Asbury Church in Little Rock, served as the first Agent of the Methodist Orphanage, beginning in 1899. In that role, he was responsible for soliciting, managing and distributing funds for the creation and opening of the Orphanage.

Membership in the James M. Workman Society recognizes an annual gift of $1,000 or more to the Methodist Family Health System.

THE GEORGE THORNBURGH SOCIETY

Colonel George Thornburgh, Methodist layman and successful businessman, is generally regarded as the founder of the Arkansas Methodist Orphanage. Beginning in 1909, while serving as the third superintendent of the orphanage, he led one of the earliest fund drives in Arkansas, an ambitious and successful $25,000 campaign to erect a new facility to serve as a modern new home of the orphanage.

Membership in the George Thornburgh Society recognizes gifts of $25,000 or more to the Methodist Family Health System.

How can I help?

Dear Friends,

Our organization is blessed with a rich heritage, and it's a story I share with joy. The programs and services that comprise the Methodist Family Health Continuum of Care have a cherished history of support.

The Arkansas Methodist Orphanage was chartered in 1899, and many of the most respected names in the history of Arkansas Methodism were involved from the outset. The Reverend James M. Workman, then pastor of the Asbury Church in Little Rock, served the three annual conferences as the first Agent of the Orphanage. He was charged with securing and distributing funds to ready the Orphanage for operation.

In 1902, three benefactresses, Mrs. L. W. Coy, Mrs. L. H. Roots, and Mrs. E.A. Tabor, made a wonderful gift: a home and property at Fifteenth and Commerce Streets in Little Rock. This location became the Orphanage's first home. A few years later, Colonel George Thornburgh, a successful business leader and active Methodist layman, resigned as chairman of the Board of Directors to become the Superintendent of the Orphanage. He undertook the task of raising an enormous amount of money ($25,000) — and did so quite successfully! With the help of those funds, he was able to build a beautiful and more modern new home for the children that opened in 1910.

Throughout the decades that have followed, Arkansas Methodist clergy and laypersons have provided generous support for the Children's Home by giving to the annual Christmas offerings and appeals. Many have also provided for the future needs of the ministry in perpetuity through bequests and trusts.

As you consider the children and your gift this year, please also consider a legacy gift through your estate plan.

Who will continue our rich heritage of providing for the children? You can, of course, and I hope you will.

Sincerely,

William R. Patterson
Vice President for Advancement

“Do all the good you can,
by all the means you can,
in all the ways you can,
in all the places you can,
at all the times you can,
to all the people you can,
as long as ever you can.”
